

FIGHTER PROVEN

Lee Turner Transport Ltd has built an excellent reputation in Wellington by giving “everything and anything a crack”. In business for 28 years, the mid-size hiab specialist carries a variety of products, ranging from building materials to gas bottles and was once even called on to give a stranded whale a lift!

To ensure the business continues to deliver on its customers’ expectations, transport manager Callan Tompkies recently added a Fuso Fighter – with the company’s trademark hiab crane mounted on the back – to his fleet of nine trucks.

“It’s a great truck - I’ve driven lots of Fighters before and they’re always very reliable,” says Callan, who’s been with Lee Turner for 15 years.

“The price is very sharp, plus, with other brands, we have to add another axle – the Fighter comes ready to go with a 6,530 mm wheelbase, which is crucial for carrying longer products such as roofing materials.

“The 9-speed manual is very easy to operate - great for driving around Wellington’s narrow streets - and the seat’s the most comfortable I’ve come across!”

Fighter FN281U8 (Current standard spec)

Wheelbase (mm)	6,530
GVM (kg)	24,000
GCM (kg)	34,000
Max power (kW/PS)	207/280
Max torque (Nm/lbft)	802/592

Callan says Fuso’s fantastic service “goes a long way – whenever we need anything done, they’re always willing to help”.

With a reputation as an agreeable and dependable operation – supported by an equally reliable Fuso Fighter – Lee Turner Transport is well placed to capitalise on new infrastructure and construction projects getting underway in the capital. You could say the business is in for a whale of a time!
